

Workshop: Duralar Workshop

Instructor(s): Hannah Cohen

Materials List

Materials for all students:

- Grafix Duralar Matte (orange pad cover, matte on both sides) - choose the pad size you'd like, at least 9x12; some local art supplies may allow you to buy one or two sheets of Duralar at a time, if you don't want to invest in a whole pad
- A couple sheets of paper of the same size to draw on
- Graphite pencil(s)
- White plastic eraser - I highly recommend the Fictis mechanical eraser made by General's, or the Staedtler Mars plastic retractable stick eraser
- A couple sheets of printer / scratch paper

If you'd like to try colored pencil:

-Artist quality-colored pencils of your choice. If you already have pencils, that's great! I personally prefer Faber-Castell's Polychromos pencils, which are oil-based. Prismacolor's pencils are wax-based, and give a different feel. If possible, stop in to a local art supply and try a couple of each out. If you're new to colored pencil, invest only as far as you feel comfortable; sets run from 12 to 120 pencils!

If you'd like to try ink:

-Molotow Blackliner pens in the following sizes: .8, .4, .2, .1, and .005. These are much better than Microns, and they're worth hunting down. If Microns are all you can find, those will work as well. No matter which brand you pick, I strongly recommend buying a couple pens of each size, particularly for the smaller sizes.

For online shopping, Jerry's Artarama, St Louis Art Supply, and Blick are great options. (Jerry's in particular tends to ship a little slowly, so be aware of that.)
